Internet Acceptable Use

NCPL supports parents and guardians in their efforts to guide their own children's access to print, non-print, and online information. The library provides printed materials about the Internet and its resources. However, most current information about the Internet resides on the network itself.

The mission of NCPL is to provide free, open, and equal access to ideas and information to all members of the community.

GENERAL STATEMENTS

The use of the Internet is a privilege and access is voluntary.

NCPL believes that the Internet provides benefits of access to information resources and collaboration that outweigh potential disadvantages of access.

NCPL seeks to preserve minors' status as full members of the Internet community.

NCPL cannot control the resources on the Internet. The Internet is not a static entity. The Internet changes each minute as new computers connect and existing computers add or delete information. Some sites accessible via the Internet may contain material that is inaccurate, defamatory, illegal, or potentially offensive to some people. While NCPL can attempt to prevent direct access to materials that would not be generally acceptable in a public library, it is impossible to prevent access to all resources that might be objectionable to some people.

It is the responsibility of parents and guardians to determine whether to place restrictions on their own children in the use of the Internet.

Users of the Internet through NCPL are expected to abide by the Acceptable Use Policy.

POLICIES

Safety

NCPL enforces a policy of Internet safety that includes measures to block or filter Internet access for both minors and adults to certain visual depictions. NCPL's technology protection measure is a specific system that blocks or filters specific Internet sites. It protects against access by adults and minors to visual depictions that are obscene, child pornography, or harmful to minors.

Filtering software is not foolproof. It diminishes the likelihood that searchers will inadvertently retrieve text or images that some may find offensive but does not eliminate that possibility. Filters sometimes block access to sites that users would consider both inoffensive and useful.

NCPL staff reserves the right to check all workstations of suspicious/inappropriate activity. In accordance with the Children's Internet Protection Act, no one under the age of 18 is permitted to access computer sites, chat rooms or e-mail that contain obscene or sexually explicit material harmful to minors.

Privacy

Users should not expect that files stored on library-based computers will be private.

Updates Adopted by the Board of Trustees
July 17, 2018

NCPL reserves the right to review any material stored in files to which all users have access, and will remove any material, which, in its opinion, does not comply with this document.

Electronic communication carried on via the Internet connection should not be considered confidential. When necessary, such communication may be used as evidence in criminal investigations and/or prosecutions. NCPL will disclose all messages on the system, to the extent required by law.

Downloading

Patrons are not allowed to download software onto the library's network or workstation hard drive. Downloading to an external device is permitted.

Behavior

Users whose conduct violates federal, state or local laws will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law. Evidence of illegal activity will be reported to the proper legal authorities. NCPL will cooperate with the proper authorities in the investigation of illegal activities.

Users will refrain from inappropriate Internet conduct. Examples of inappropriate conduct include: use of the Internet for unlawful or malicious activities; misrepresentation of oneself or NCPL; sending chain letters; using abusive or objectionable language in either public or private messages; engaging in harassing behavior such as sending or posting slanderous, libelous, obscene, or threatening messages; and other activities that could cause congestion and disruption of networks and systems.

Prohibited Actions

1. Access, upload, download, or distribution of pornographic, obscene, or sexually explicit material;
2. Transmission of obscene, abusive, or sexually explicit language;
3. Violation of any local, state or federal statute;
4. Vandalizing, damage, or disabling of the property of another individual or organization.
5. Accessing another individual's private materials/files.
6. Violation of copyright or otherwise use of the intellectual property of another individual or organization without permission.
7. Disruption of any of the Internet networks as a whole or any equipment or system forming part of the connection or the Internet system, or any services provided over the Connection.

Liability

NCPL makes no warranties, expressed or implied, that the functions or content of the system will meet any user's specific requirements, or that it will be error-free or trouble-free, current or uninterrupted; nor shall NCPL be liable for any direct or indirect, incidental, or consequential damages (including lost data, information, or income) sustained or incurred in connection with the use operations, or inability to use the system. In consideration for the privilege of using the system and for having access to the information contained on the system, users hereby release and hold harmless the staff and Board of Trustees of NCPL.

The board in its turn will inform the complainant of its decision on the matter within thirty (30) days.

Materials that no longer meet the stated objectives of NCPL will be discarded according to accepted professional practices described in the publication, The Crew Manual. Disposition of library materials by weeding will be at the discretion of the Director.

Patron Grievance

This policy addresses patron complaints regarding Library services, procedure or policies. It is the goal of the staff and Board of to provide the best possible service to our patrons. Library policies and procedures have been developed to provide fair and efficient service to all individuals. Persons who have experienced difficulties with service or who wish to question a library policy are always welcome to discuss those concerns with the Library Director. The Director will endeavor to resolve those issues as quickly and fairly as possible.

If an informal meeting with Library staff does not settle the complaint, a patron may request to enter into the Library's formal grievance procedure.

PATRON GRIEVANCE PROCEDURE

A patron who wishes to file a formal grievance about a Library policy or procedure, a service, or a staff member's conduct should submit a complaint in writing to the Library Director. The written complaint should include the date of the complaint; the name, address, and telephone number of the individual making the complaint; and a detailed explanation of the issue. If the complaint deals with a specific incident, it should also include the date of the incident. A printed complaint form is available, but its use is not mandatory. The Library Director will respond in writing within fourteen (14) working days of receiving the complaint.

If the complainant is not satisfied with the response of the Library Director, the individual may request that the issue be brought before the Library's Board of Trustees. Requests for Board consideration will be in writing and be presented no longer than 30 days after the decision by the Library Director. If the Board chooses to review the issue, it will be placed on the agenda of the next Library Board meeting, unless the Library Director receives the request eight (8) or fewer working days before the meeting. In that case, it will be placed on the agenda of the following month's meeting.

The issue will be discussed at an open public meeting of the Board of Trustees. If the Board finds that it has ample information to make a decision, the Board will render a decision at that time. Summaries of all discussion at open library board meetings will be recorded in the minutes as part of the public record. Board minutes are open to the public after they have been approved by the Board of Trustees and made available on the library's website.

The Board may determine that added information, testimony, or expert advice is needed to render a fair decision. In that case, the Board may choose to postpone the decision to the following meeting or to hold a special meeting of the Board of Trustees for the express purpose of handling the complaint. All efforts will be made to hear the complaint and to render a decision in a timely manner. In no event will the final decision be rendered any later than 90 days after the complaint to the Board is received by the Library Director.

The decision of the Board of Trustees is final and will be formally communicated to the complainant by the director.

The Library director will maintain an accurate record of the action taken at each level of the complaint process.

This policy does not apply to complaints relating to an exhibit or an item in the Library's collection. Such complaints must follow the procedures set forth in the Selection and Withdrawal of Materials Policy.

Free Standing Exhibit and Exhibit Case

The primary purposes of exhibits in the library are for the exhibition of materials of interest and quality and to attract the general public into the library as a means of promoting greater library usage. This is best accomplished by integrating the scheduling of the displays into the library's overall public relations program. The library welcomes display suggestions from the public. The staff of the library will not be responsible for the arrangement of the displays.

Owners of displays will be responsible for the setting and taking down of displays in accordance with arrangements determined by the library.

Since scheduling can be time consuming, parties setting and taking down displays must keep the schedule assigned them. A twenty-four notice should be given of any change in schedule.

Many displays featured in the library are quite valuable. Because of this, display cases will be locked and only responsible parties will be allowed access to cases during the month of the display.

The library is not insured for items on display. NCPL and its Board of Trustees and staff will have no liability for losses of display items, and displayers agree to assume and hold the library harmless from any and all losses of or to the display items.

Displays that have only a religious theme will not be exhibited.

Patrons wishing to set up displays items must first complete an "Exhibit Application" which includes a liability waiver.

Displays with contents that are considered to be in poor taste by the Director will not be allowed. If the patron is not in agreement with the Director's decision concerning the display in question, the patron may appeal the Director's decision to the Board of Trustees

Social Media

NCPL is committed to using current forms of Social Media. Social Media is defined as any web application, web site or web account created and/or maintained by NCPL. The library believes that by participating in Social Media we are more accessible to our library users and can better promote library services and resources.

These applications are not designed to be traditional public forums but a limited forum to discuss library services and resources.

NCPL is only obligated to permit the public to exercise rights in posting that are consistent with the nature of the library. The Library reserves the right to ban or block users who have posted in violation of the above policy.

Creation and maintenance of web application(s) is done by a trained staff member under the direction of the Director and/or Assistant Director.

Video Surveillance

NCPL strives to maintain a safe and secure environment for its staff and patrons. In pursuit of this objective, selected public areas of the library premises are under video surveillance and recording. Signage will be posted at the library entrances at all times disclosing this activity. When an incident occurs on the Library premises:

Video image recordings will be used to identify the person or persons responsible for Library policy violations, criminal activity, or actions considered disruptive to normal Library operations.

Video records may be used to assist law enforcement agencies in accordance with applicable state and federal laws.

Video recordings of incidents can be retained and reviewed as long as considered necessary by the Library Director.

Images may be shared with other Library staff to identify person(s) suspended from Library property and to maintain a safe and secure environment. While it is recognized that video surveillance will not prevent all incidents, its potential deterrent effect, and resource as a means of identifying and prosecuting offenders is considered worthwhile.
